Dr. Cozine Accepts New Job; Miss Cook Is to Replace Her

Dr. June Cozine, who has been chairman of the home economics department for the past fourteen years, will be leaving this campus at the end of the summer term to accept a new position as Head of the Department of Home Economics Education of the Division of Home Economics at the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College in Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Dr. Cozine has been a member of the college faculty for eighteen years. During that time, she has served as an instructor, as chairman of the department of home economics, and as Chairman of the Division of Fine and Applied Arts. In her new position she will have the opportunity to participate in research work and to work with students at the undergraduate, master, and doctoral levels.

Dr. J. W. Jones, president of the college, recently announced the appointment of Miss Mabel Cook of the present staff as the new chairman of the home economics department.

Miss Cook has been a member of the College faculty since 1947. She received her B. S. in Education from Northwest Missouri State College and her M. A. degree from Columbia University, New York City. She has done additional graduate work at Colorado State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, Iowa State College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts, and the University of Chicago. Miss Cook is a past national president of the Home Economics Sorority, Kappa Omicron Phi, and a state president of the Missouri Association of Home Economists.

Only Two Remain

Only two showings still remain on the social committee's list of motion pictures this summer. They are "Follow the Sun," to be shown tonight, and "Swanee River," to be presented next Wednesday evening. "Follow the Sun," which tells of the life of one of America's golfing greats — Ben Hogan, — stars Glenn Ford, Anne Baxter, and Dennis O'Keefe; and shows such golfers as Snead, Demaret, and Middlecoff in action.

"Swanee River" stars Don Ameche, Andrea Leeds, and Al Jolson, and is based on the life of the great Stephen Foster.

Married Couples Are Prominent in Campus Summer Activities

Two from New Mexico Attend Summer School

By John F. Whitford

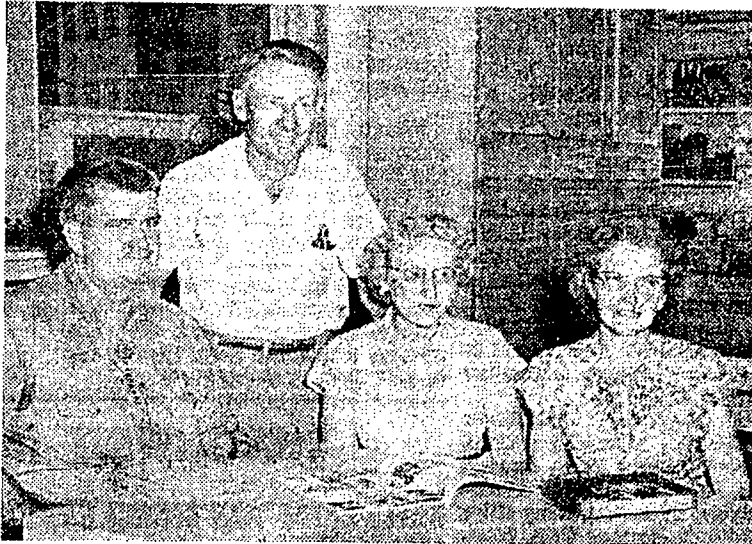

Can you imagine driving twelve thousand miles to go to school? Well that's what Edwin and Floa Rector have done. This couple, one of the many husband and wife teams attending the College this summer, came all the way from Prewitt, New Mexico, in their famous black hearse to attend the summer session at Northwest Missouri State.

The Rectors list Gentry County as their home county in Missouri because during the past thirty years they have farmed and taught in that county and adjoining Harrison County.

At the present time Mr. and Mrs. Rector are employed at the Boca Community School in Prewitt, New Mexico. The Boca school is a primary boarding school for Navajo Indians, maintained by the Fort Wingate Area of Board of Indian Affairs on the Navajo Reservation in New Mexico.

According to Mrs. Rector, they began their work at the school on June 1st last year and after a year of service she says that both her husband and she enjoy the work very much and hope to remain there for some time.

Mrs. Rector is principal of the school, and she teaches the pre-school beginners while her husband teaches the first grade and the over-age beginners—children up to twelve years of age who are just beginning their schooling. A third teacher instructs the second and the third grade which is as high as the school goes.

"Something new every day" is how Mr. Rector describes their work at Boca. They have a family of 100 Navajos in the school who manage to provide plenty of ways to keep them busy, he says.

The language barrier is no barrier at all to the Rectors in their teaching duties. In spite of the fact that only forty-three miles away in Gallup 39 languages are spoken, Navajo is the only language other than English in their area, and an interpreter is always at hand.

Because of the dry climate, the lawns and fields must be irrigated but, says Mr. Rector, "The weather down there has it all over Missouri weather. There's always a good breeze, and it's cool enough for a jacket by 7 p. m." Mr. Rector also can recall having the electric fan on only once last summer. He says that the 7,000 feet elevation and the low humidity help to keep the climate much more comfortable.

Attending rodeos is one of the Rectors' favorite means of entertainment. Mr. Rector also enjoys horseback riding. He finds it a good way to reduce. According to him it "never fails to reduce the horse."

Education, Farming Interest Hunsickers

By Roy Rinehart

Operating a farm of 220 acres does not keep Mr. and Mrs. Everet Hunsicker from furthering their education objectives. After completing the tasks necessary to keep a farm operating properly, they drive from their home near Eagleville to attend classes during the week.

Mrs. Hunsicker received her B. S. degree in elementary education from the College in 1938. She completed work on her M. A. degree in the field of elementary supervision at Warrensburg last summer.

At present Mrs. Hunsicker is working toward her second B. S. degree, this time in secondary education with a major in social science and a minor in English. Upon the completion of this degree she plans to start work on her doctor's degree. During the regular school year she is employed as the elementary school principal at Lamoni, Iowa.

Mr. Hunsicker has been a full time student at the College since enrolling as a freshman in the winter semester of 1951. With a major in agriculture and a minor in social science, he is working toward a B. S. in secondary education. After completing his degree here, Mr. Hunsicker plans to continue his education at Iowa State. There he will work toward meeting the requirements of a B. S. degree. (Continued on Page Three)

Classroom Teachers

Meet This Friday

Audrey N. Shauer is to be the speaker at the assembly of the Classroom Teachers' Professional Day, according to Mr. Everett Brown, director of field services. The assembly will be on Friday, July 22.

Miss Shauer, who is the National Education Association Director for Indiana, will remain on the campus for consultation throughout the day, and she will be honored at a social hour in the Union Lounge from 4 until 4 p.m.

Missourian's Printer Leaves for Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Ursle Crockett, and son, Robert Graham, left Saturday for Phoenix, Ariz., to visit relatives for a few days before they take their annual vacation in the Rocky Mountains near Denver, Colo. Mr. Crockett, manager of the Forum Print Shop, has charge of printing the Northwest Missourian.

It's Up to You . . .

The average car buyer will spend weeks in comparing new models to decide which one suits his fancy and his pocket book. Then, he will go through a period of bickering and maneuvering to secure what he believes is the best buy.

He wants to secure every ounce of value that he can for his hard earned money; but once he buys it, he will break every rule of common sense and courtesy while driving. He not only will take chances of demolishing his proud possession, but he will stake his life on the outcome of his driving blunders without batting an eye.

In one recent instance, a 19-year-old boy swerved into the left lane of the highway and hit an oncoming car, killing the driver and a passenger in that car and seriously injuring two other passengers. The youth and a passenger in his car were also killed. The investigation revealed that the dead 19-year-old driver had been arrested only two days previously for careless driving. Two cases of beer were found in his demolished car.

Let us all, as we leave the campus this summer, remember to drive safely, intelligently, and carefully as all "people in the know" should. When drivers eliminate the factors that lead to their own failure and use common sense in adjusting their driving to road, weather and traffic conditions, traffic tragedies will be greatly reduced. . .

The Missouri State Highway Patrol's recent campaign to "Slow down—and live!" certainly deserves commendation. Pleasant and safe use of highway facilities depends a great deal upon moderation by drivers. Excessive and dangerous speeds certainly cannot be tolerated, but contrariwise, traffic cannot be expected to move at a snail's pace.

Concerning drinking and driving one might remember this maxim: "If you drink like a fish when you're near a bar, then drink what a fish drinks when you drive a car."

The important thing to remember is that this year's traffic death rate will depend on you . . . and YOU . . . and YOU! All the safety devices made will not materially help the situation unless they are operated intelligently by their users.

The Stroller . . .

Well, the summer session is almost over and the students of Northwest Missouri State can stop looking over their shoulders because with this issue the Stroller will cease strolling until September. He's going to take what she considers a well-earned vacation.

Some time ago, as the Stroller was driving onto the campus with a friend, they happened to pass one of those signs which says, "Stop for pedestrians crossing." Remarked the innocent friend, "Why do we have to stop for Presbyterians?"

Overheard in a psychology class: The professor said in his wrath, "All men are liars." Therefore he was a liar. Therefore what he said was not true. If what he said was not true then all men are not liars, but if all men are not liars then he is not a liar and what he said was true—"All men are liars."

Just in case you are wondering, the above paragraph is called "logic."

Heat! Heat! Heat! That seems to be all one hears about these days. The Stroller got to checking the records and found that the temperature this summer has averaged 5 or 6 degrees below last summer's average. There's only one catch to those figures—July averaged about 10 degrees higher in both years. That still makes it hot!

With final exams just around the corner, every one, including the Stroller, is really beginning to wear out the books. Here is a rather appropos poem for exam-time.

I like an exam
I think it's fun
I never cram;
I don't flunk one.
(I'm the teacher!)

Another example of the cooler temperatures is the abundance of beautiful flowers about the campus. Last year the heat just withered them, but this summer, correct rainfall and temperature have brought out their full beauty.

The two Joes—Sickels and Stansbury—were at it again last week. It seems that one Joe had a recording of some conversation made by the other Joe, and this Joe didn't appreciate the other Joe's possession of it. Now—which Joe was which?

Well, this just about winds up this summer's edition of the Stroller. She thinks that a conversation overheard in the Ad building hall the other day will finish the column up very nicely: "They should close up the joint in August and let everybody take a vacation."

No offense to the College is intended, of course.

Yours truly—

—The Stroller.

When Are Yours ?

Final examinations for the summer session will be held Friday, Saturday, and Monday, July 29 and 30, and August 1, on the following schedule:

Classes meeting at:	Will hold final examinations:

Do You

Have a Sunburn?

By D. Maurice Sullivan

Most students in college here have already had one or two cases of sunburn. Last week, a poll was taken to determine the best remedy for sunburn. Ten students were asked what they would do if they had an erythema solare (erythema solare, which is the medical name for sunburn, means "red irritation of the skin caused by the sun"). Some of the answers received were—well, read 'em and weep.

Howard Carter: "Try to get rid of it."

Keith Groom: "Go to the hospital."

Harry Bowes: "I'd go south." (He'd use anything for an excuse to do that.)

Bonnie Hooker: "Sell it to the nearest boy."

Myron Varley: "Die!"

Ann Lyons: "I'd will it to Horace Mann High School."

Kirk Showalter: "Spike it and serve it with watermelon for dinner Sunday."

Dannie Smith: "I'd put it out to pasture."

Elizabeth Wilhelm: "Absorb it, I guess."

Nancy Noel: "Put a picture of it in the paper."

They're Talking . .

They're talking about a picnic for the Villagers . . . the noisy third floor at the Dorm—skit practice? . . . Strategic Air Command and the love of the boys in the air force. . . The All-Star game — and of course money in general — and where is it? . . . Committee reports . . . term papers . . . projects . . . speeches . . . pantomimes . . . One college mother who while drawing the picture of the "Little Red Hen" for an art class finds her number two son imitating a "tar baby" — fact not folklore . . . The drive-in movie — a cool place . . . Celebrations . . . The lake at Bedford . . . the water is fine . . . As usual the warm weather and the lady who took her own air conditioner to class to the annoyance of the professor. . . Vacations which are not long away.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bishop

"I thought perhaps you didn't know—there are three higher possible grades besides "D" and "F"."

Notes About the Faculty . . .

Faculty members are looking forward to the month of August and their well-earned vacations.

Miss Estella Bowman, of the English department, will spend August visiting in Bend, Oregon, at the home of her niece, Mrs. R. V. Messing, a former student here. Since Crater Lake National Park will be near, Miss Bowman looks forward to some sight-seeing trips in the beautiful Cascade range.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Dieterich will go west at the end of the summer term. They will visit Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dieterich, Missoula, Montana, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dieterich, Albuquerque, New Mexico. The first-mentioned son is in the U. S. Forester Service and has been working on research projects this summer; the second is working toward his Ph. D. degree in American Studies at the University of New Mexico.

Dr. and Mrs. Leon F. Miller and their daughter Carol plan to spend a part of August in Springfield, visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. W. A. Rickenbrode of the business office has made no plans for August.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Whitney and their son are planning a trip to the East. They will visit such points of interest as Washington, D. C., New York, Westminster Choir College, and Boston (naturally).

Miss Ruth Miller, supervisor of elementary music at Horace Mann Laboratory School, was on the campus last week after having returned from a short vacation.

She left Maryville again on Sunday to go to Bloomington, Indiana, where she will participate in a Junior High Music Workshop conducted by Dr. Irvin Cooper at Indiana University. Before returning to Maryville Miss Miller plans to attend a Piano Workshop in St. Louis.

Mr. F. B. Houghton, of the agriculture department, will attend a short course on livestock judging at Missouri University, Columbia, August 2-4.

Miss Barbara Wilson, librarian at Horace Mann, attended a national convention of the American Library Association in Philadelphia, July 4-8.

Miss Dora B. Smith has moved into her new brick house, 512 South Walnut. Her purchase includes a lawn, with enough work about the home to keep her busy. She says she especially appreciates her new garage.

Mr. A. H. "Bert" Cooper, on leave from Northwest Missouri State faculty, returned to the campus for the annual alumni banquet. He was accompanied by Mrs. Cooper.

Mr. Cooper is director of the Department of Business and Administration at the state capitol in Jefferson City. Appointed by the Governor, he holds a position in the state government similar to that of a cabinet officer in the national government.

Around the Campus Now . . .

Miss Rachael Taul, former counselor of students at the College, came to the campus Monday for a visit with friends. She is spending the summer in Smithville where her mother, Mrs. Lloyd Taul, lives.

Miss Taul has been teaching American history at East High School in Denver, Colorado, this year.

Mr. Homer T. Phillips, professor emeritus, and Mrs. Phillips are back in Maryville this summer after spending the past year in Albuquerque where Mrs. Phillips teaches.

Mr. Phillips, who has a valuable collection of early American books and papers, came to the College faculty in 1922 as a member of the education department. He was director of the College placement office for 15 years.

Church architecture and symbolism was the topic of study for a group of students as they visited churches in St. Joseph, July 10. Contemporary Gothic, English Gothic, American Colonial, Greek Ionic, and a Jewish Synagogue revealed to the group many new and interesting concepts. The students had an evening of fellowship with the youth groups of First Christian Church and took part in a communion service held in their new chapel.

The Reverend David Thomas of the First Presbyterian Church and the Reverend Ralph Lambert of the First Christian Church accompanied Peg Andrews, Theola Carlson, Mary Carter, Darlene Coleman, Marjorie Golightly, Edward Herde, Don Miller, Margie Morse, and Fred Whitford.

Miss Mabel Clair Winburn, secretary to the President, was back at her desk, July 11, after a trip to Los Angeles to attend the 18th National Convention of the American Association of University Women. She was a delegate from the Maryville branch. Miss Winburn reported a "wonderful trip" and was especially pleased with a tour taken by her travelling group through Yosemite National Park.

Jo Ann Noble Tells of Visit To the "Land of the Scots"

By Frances Swearingen

Painting a word picture is not difficult when the subject being described is colorful and lively as Jo Ann Noble, a junior from Agency. She is a typical college girl—22 years old with brown hair and hazel eyes. She is an elementary major and has taught kindergarten at Council Bluffs, Iowa, and first grade at Gower. This next fall she will teach second grade at Gower, which is near her parents' home, a 115 acre farm.

Jo Ann is a typical farm girl too. As an active member of 4-H she has always enjoyed the many projects which she has undertaken. In fact, she had been in 4-H work for 10 years when last year she was chosen on the merit of this work to participate in the International Farm Youth Exchange. This meant a summer in Scotland.

Her trip has been one of the big topics of discussion on campus this summer, for Jo Ann's enthusiasm is highly contagious.

After many weeks of planning, she and six other "IFYE's" from Missouri spent one whole week in Washington, D. C., being "oriented." Learning what, how, and when to do what, was the important idea. There seemed an unlimited quantity of things such as popcorn, red bandanas, cake mix, etc., to be packed in the allotted two suitcases. These items were taken because other "IFYE's" who had visited abroad had reported that the novelty of these things had interested their hosts. There were many things to learn before the H. M. S. Seven Seas took a somewhat excited group of "IFYE's" to their various destinations.

Southampton, England, was Jo Ann's port of debarkation, and she spent one and one-half days in London where she saw the Queen of England, the Duke of Edinburgh, and the king and queen of Sweden. She fed the pigeons (as all tourists must) in Trafalgar Square before leaving for Edinburgh, Scotland, to meet the first of ten families with which she was to stay during the summer.

Spending several weeks in each of the homes, helping with the daily work and participating in the social life of the family, has given Jo Ann some wonderful memories.

"One of the first things I did was wash dishes," Jo Ann says, "They had the idea that American girls didn't do such things." But Jo Ann proved a good advocate to the contrary.

Several evenings each week were given to attending dances and parties. Jo Ann enjoyed these and found that boys are the same the world over. Use of the family car was part of the dating set-up. So was "jitterbugging." The first song she heard upon entering a hotel for one dance was the then popular "Cross Over the Bridge."

The thing that impressed Jo Ann the most was the friendliness of people whom she met. She smiles reminiscently when she tells how each of the ten families as well as other friends did everything possible to make her stay a wonderful one.

Jo Ann also spent nine days in Paris before she returned home. She has many colored slides which she took with her 35 mm camera. This is one of the requirements of all those who take part in the exchange, and she is now busy talking about her trip to groups in northwest Missouri.

All of those who know Jo Ann are not in doubt that she is sincerely dedicated to the belief and ambition of the International Farm Youth Exchange that understanding is the foundation of world peace.

Besides operating a farm and attending college, Mr. Hunsicker has a hobby of raising and training beagle hounds. As an outgrowth of this hobby, he is a national field trial judge of beagle hound field trials which are held each year.

The tight schedule which Mr. and Mrs. Hunsicker have set for themselves does not leave much time for recreational activities. When time does permit however, they like to go on hunting and fishing trips, whichever may be appropriate for the season.

Baseball Questionnaire Shows What Is Wrong With Baseball

Not too long ago, Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, invited fans to reply to him their ideas on what is wrong with baseball these days.

It was a good move by Frick, but it was also a little late. Already, the commissioner says he has received many responses to his query.

The whole idea offers a new departure by the sport's big brass. Hitherto, the fans could go hang. Of late, the moguls are coming around to reasoning that the spectator is a great big part of the game. He's the guy who pays the freight. He knows what he should get for his money, but isn't always getting it.

The thoughts of fans have not changed so much in the last few years. The same gripes they had in 1952 will still be prominent. There has been no sweeping changes in the game in that time from the fan's viewpoint.

One suggestion that will be prominent is that the games are too long, and too much time is wasted. This complaint is not new either. It seems as though the games drag out longer and longer. No one has given it a big push to speed up the sport.

It probably won't be long before the two-hour games will be in the past.

Pitchers take all the time they want, and the umpires usually don't do anything about it. They have to tug at their pants, wipe their hands, straighten their caps and mop their brows. It is delight for the spectators when a pitcher will not waste time. The slow pitcher, after getting ready to throw a pitch, usually finds the batter has decided to step out of the box to rub some dirt on his bat. Then both go through the repeated action over and over again.

Conferences on the mound always take time. Most of the time, the manager will talk about the weather to his faltering pitcher, while a reliever is getting warm in the bull pen so he will be ready.

Fans will always sit through this, but this does not mean they like it. The players, who are being paid well enough—not considering the money from endorsements for cigarettes they do not smoke, cereal they don't eat, and blades they don't shave with—could do much in this respect. Fans like to see a team who will hustle all of the time. Most players do hustle, but a few will keep the clock running on and on. One other thing which might

Marciano to Defend Random Shots . . . Title in September

Boxing fans in this area will really be getting a thrill next September 20, when Rocky Marciano will defend his heavyweight championship title against Archie Moore at Yankee stadium.

Not long ago, Rocky battered Englishman Don Cockell in a title fight. Archie recently won the light heavyweight title from Bobo Olsen. Moore has been wanting a fight for the heavyweight crown for a long time, and since he whipped Olsen, Rocky's manager could not resist Moore any more. Finally they got together and signed for the bout.

Marciano has never been beaten. He is one of the greatest champions there is. No one has hurt him very badly in any of his fights since gaining the title. Moore might be the one to do this though as he punches hard and is quick. Moore is nearing the 40 mark in age, but this doesn't seem to bother him.

It is doubted whether the fight will be telecasted, but you fight fans can hear the blow-by-blow account via radio. Shortly after the fight, the theater houses will have a news reel for your convenience.

The odds are favoring Rocky 13-5, but you had better not put too much money on him as there could very easily be a new champion of the heavyweight division.

help bring baseball interest back is to have all the playing fields the same. Some long hitters hit the ball in one park for an out, whereas in another park it would have been a home run easy.

This suggestion would really cost too much money, but something should be done to the ball fields with short distances to every fence. In other words, the baseball fields should have some standardization.

The major leagues are not hurting so badly that there is danger of interest in the sport dying altogether. In the minor leagues it is a different story, but the major league clubs are usually to blame as

All school picnic was enjoyed last week . . . Square dance finished the wonderful evening off although the weather was a little warm . . . Social committee has done a bang-up job this summer for enjoyment, both of the faculty and students.

Hank Southard was trying to drive off the other day at the golf course, and his ball was on top of a ant hill. After failing for so many times that there were only two ants left in the hill and the ball hadn't been touched, one ant looked over to the other and said, "Let's get on the ball; it's the safest place to be with this guy."

Casey was at bat last week in Mrs. Mauzey's Speech 51 class . . . He still isn't hitting that third ball that is thrown to him . . . Boys did a good job in making this into a pantomime.

T. V. room in the Union was filled the 12th for the All-Star game between the American and National leagues. Everyone seemed to be enjoying the game although the picture wasn't too clear at times. National league finally came from behind and won the game 6-5, on the power of Stan Musial, in extra innings.

All that it seems necessary for men aren't a bit worried, there the majors to do is try improving wasn't much necessity for Frick's their camps, and also give them questionnaire at all, was there?
